IN THE COURTROOMS

8 April 2015

Appeals Chamber upholds Tolimir’s convictions for genocide and unanimously affirms life sentence

On 8 April 2015, the Appeals Chamber, Judge Theodor Meron presiding, rendered its Appeals Judgement in the case of Zdravko Tolimir, a former Assistant Commander and Chief of the Sector for Intelligence and Security Affairs of the Main Staff of the Army of the Republika Srpska (VRS), charged with crimes committed in the Srebrenica and Žepa enclaves in 1995.

Tolimir was initially indicted in 2005. His trial commenced on 26 February 2010, with the Trial Chamber Judgement delivered on 12 December 2012. On 8 April 2015, the Appeals Chamber confirmed the Trial Chamber’s findings that Tolimir participated in two joint criminal enterprises (JCEs): one to murder the able-bodied men of Srebrenica and one to forcibly remove the Bosnian Muslim population from Srebrenica and Žepa. Based on his participation in those two JCEs, the Appeals Chamber affirmed Tolimir’s convictions for genocide, conspiracy to commit genocide, extermination, murder, persecutions, and inhumane acts (forcible transfer).

The Appeals Chamber further affirmed that Tolimir actively participated in and significantly contributed to these JCEs, which resulted in the mass execution of thousands of Bosnian Muslims in Srebrenica and the forcible displacement of thousands of civilians from these two enclaves.

The Appeals Chamber partly reversed Tolimir’s conviction for genocide by means of (i) causing serious mental harm but only to the extent the conviction was based on the Bosnian Serb operations in Žepa (Judges Sekule and Güney dissenting) and (ii) inflicting conditions of life calculated to destroy the Muslim population of Eastern BiH as a whole. The Appeals Chamber confirmed that the Bosnian Muslims of Žepa were, along with the Muslims of Srebrenica and Eastern BiH, the victims of genocide. The Appeals Chamber also partly reversed Tolimir’s convictions for: (i) genocide, murder and extermination, but only to the extent based on the killings of six Bosnian Muslim men near Trnovo by members of the “Scorpions” unit; and (ii) genocide and extermination, but only to the extent based on the killings of three Žepa leaders after the forcible removal of the enclave’s population. The Appeals Chamber did not disturb the Trial Chamber’s finding that the three killings constituted murders as a war crime and a crime against humanity.

The Appeals Chamber affirmed Tolimir’s sentence of life-imprisonment.
